

Hardware Applications Developed by Pervasive Technology Labs through June, 2004

Name	Description	Lab	Application	Comments
etx	PercepTable-based exhibit for information exploration	Visualization and Interactive Spaces	Installed at the Indianapolis Museum of Art, the etx application allows visitors to explore the art collection and retrieve information about an art object's details, gallery location, and relationship to other pieces from the collection.
Watching Your Watershed	PercepTable-based exhibit for information exploration	Visualization and Interactive Spaces	Installed at the Indiana State Museum, Watching Your Watershed lets visitors explore Indiana's watersheds and replay significant rainfall events.
Make A Meal Interface for Nutrition Education	RFID-based solution for using physical objects in the user interface	Visualization and Interactive Spaces	Installed at the Ruth Lilly Health Education Center, the Make A Meal interface lets health educators present information about foods' nutrient content by simply picking up physical food models and placing them on a tray.	